San Antonio, TX – Custom Insurance Solutions (CIS) today announced the availability of software release 5.0 of Agency Information Manager (AIM), the comprehensive agency management system developed specifically for the MGA / wholesale broker insurance market. AIM is a highly scalable, Windows-based, insurance processing platform that utilizes Microsoft SQL Server as its database engine.

According to Esmeralda Mendoza, SQA Manager at CIS, “highlights of the AIM software release include: enhanced submission and policy management, document management, reporting capabilities, and third-party software integration. A significant feature included in the release is full support of the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act (TRIA). This enhancement allows AIM to automatically calculate the TRIA premium based on the individual risk company and the line of business. Also, the system does allow for manual input of the TRIA premium as well.”

One of the beta sites for the 5.0 release of AIM is CRC Insurance Services, Inc., located in Birmingham, Alabama. Mike Roy, Chief Information Officer, comments on the enhanced version of AIM, "CIS has continually added features that streamline our operation and automate our business. This new version is no exception and has greatly enhanced our document management capabilities and electronic submission processing".

Eric Winch, Managing Director of CIS, comments on the release, “I have always believed that the depth of AIM software is a reflection of the customers that use it. This release incorporates over eighty-five enhancement requests we have received from our clients at the CIS National User Conference and also from those members on our Product Advisory Committee. We continue to enhance and develop to meet the needs of the wholesale and MGA market. We look forward to delivering the 5.0 software release to all of our customers in the next ninety days”.
